News items for this column should be sent direct to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, Station M, New York.
A few words of information in a letter or on a postal card is sufficient. We will do the rest.

The oft-repeated statement that "the deaf of New York are tired of balls," was completely refuted at American Hall, 42d Street and Eight Avenue, on the eve of Thanksgiving Day.

It was at that time and place that the Hollywood Fraternity of Deaf-Mutes gave its Dance and Masquerade, and the hall was packed with deaf-mutes from all over New York, Brooklyn, New Jersey and Connecticut. A conservative estimate of the number present places it in the vicinity of four hundred.

The Hollywood Fraternity offered prizes for the most original, beautiful or striking costumes, and for the purpose of making the awards had the services of the following as judges: Thomas Francis Fox, Grand Ruler of the League of Elect Surds; Arthur C. Bachrach, President of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League; Wilbur L. Bowers, President of the Brooklyn Deaf-Mute Club; Paul E. Kees, President of the New Jersey Deaf-Mute Society; Alex L. Pach, President of the Metropolitan Club of Deaf Mutes; Edwin A. Hodgson.

The grand march began at ten o'clock, to the strains of Reiff's Orchestra. The Judges, from the platform, made their individual selections as the maskers circled the room, and afterwards retired to compare notes and decide upon the winners of prizes. The result was as follows:

First Prize.—Calendar Girl, represented by Mrs. Clara Frey.

Second Prize.—Liberty, by Miss Louisa Daberkow.

Third Prize.—Transfer Girl, by Miss Lulu Rains.

Fourth Prize.—Joan of Arc, by Miss Violet Pearce.

First Prize.—A Roman Soldier, by Louis H. Kutner.

Second Prize.—Happy Hooligan, by Harry Zerovitch.

Third Prize.—Russian Jew, by Samuel Greenburg.

The committee had considerable difficulty in making decisions, as there was much merit shown in so many of costumes.

Others in costume besides those mentioned above were:—

Hod Carrier.—William Aalbus. Soubrette.—Miss Margaret Hagan.

College Girl.—Miss Emma Johnson.

Guardsman.—B. C. A. Kesselman.

French Nainsook Label Girl.—Mrs. M. Levy.

Columbia.—Miss Lizzie Gompertz.

Japanese Lady.—Miss Leila King.

Ballet Girls.—Misses Nellie Fuller and Clara Knox.

Clown.—A. Pons.

West Indian Soldier.—Miss Mabel Pearce.

Straw man.—William O. Fish.

Morning Star.—Mrs. Sadie Lounsbury.

Pierrot.—Miss Elizabeth Thadwald.

Rubber Neck.—Miss Hetwisch Hutschenreuter.

Statue of Liberty.—Miss Carrie Bryan.

Gipsy Fortune Teller.—Miss Kate Kellerhe.

Flower Girl.—Miss Ethel Shelley.

Comic Supplement.—Miss Daisy Peck.

White and Black Clown.—James Aven.

Red Riding Hood.—Miss Katie Ehrlich.

Tramp.—Julius Seandal.

Milkmaid.—Miss Ray Fenalli.

Swabian Peasant.—Miss Louisa Kummer.

The first-prize awards were five dollars in cash.

She dancing was kept up till the small hours of morning, and the zest and vim display amply showed that all were having a good time.

All of the deaf-mute organizations in New York, Brooklyn and New Jersey, were liberally represented, which is quite encouraging, as these public entertainments are common ground on which all can meet and lend the encouragement of their presence.

The Hollywood Fraternity of Deaf-Mutes is officered as follows:—William Renner, President; Fred C. Berger, Vice-President; Alfred C. Stern, Secretary; Robert E. Maynard, Treasurer.

Executive Committee.—Edward C. Elsworth, Chairman, Charles E. Brewer, Henry J. Powell.

Board of Trustees.—Henry R. Beuermann, Chairman, Murray Campbell, William W. Thomas.

The committee of arrangements, who deserve credit for the successful management of this affair, were: Edward C. Elsworth, Alfred Stern, Harry Powell, Barnett Zwofke, William Renner.

Quite a surprise awaited Mr. Jacques Loew at the rooms of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, on the evening of Thanksgiving Day. He had reached the seventieth milestone on life's road on the previous day, November 28th.

Mindful of the fact that Mr. Loew has always been a good and helpful member of the Union League, as he has always been in the social life of the deaf during his residence in this city, which covers more than thirty years, his fellow members decided to show their appreciation, and had contributed to a testimonial in commemoration of his birthday.

At half-past eight in the evening, Mr. Loew entered, all unwitting of what was in store for him.

President Bachrach asked all to be seated, and after stating that it was not a business meeting and regretting the absence of Mr. Frankenheim, who, with himself composed the committee to do honor to Mr. Loew, he proceeded in the name of the members to make the presentation address, and then presented to Mr. Loew a fine Malacca cane, with a buck-horn handle and a silver ferrule, appropriately engraved with name and date, etc. It was purchased at Tiffany's, which is in itself a guarantee of its sterling worth and workmanship.

After Mr. Loew had made fitting response, a address eulogistic of his services to his fellow deaf, and his rank as a man of business and a worthy citizen, were made by Messrs. Felix A. Simonson, E. A. Hodgson, Emanuel Souweine, Emil Basch, Rudolf Janik, Moritz Schoenfeld, "Teddy" Rose, Marcus L. Kenner.

His son, Osmond Loew, who has just reached manhood, is a fine, gentlemanly young fellow, told of his home life and the kind indulgence of his father, and expressed his gratitude for the honor done him as well as his pride at being the son of such a good father.

Miss Emma Schiff modestly gave expression to the Ladies' Alpha Society, and told of the high esteem in which Mr. Loew was held by all of them.

Mr. A. C. Bachrach added to the speeches of eulogy by a brief resume of Mr. Loew's good deeds in helping projects that promised benefit to the deaf, and of his faithful work as a member of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League.

Henry Kohlman furnished the gateau assortis end of the eulogistic menu, and Miss Stella Hirsch naively and prettily threw to Mr. Loew the final banquet.

Master Willie Deegan, mine host of the Scotch Plains Inn, Scotch Plains, New Jersey, was lounging behind the bar, Saturday evening, dreamily listening to the merry click, click, click of the cash register as the two hustling barkeepers raked in the shekels. It was nearly 10 o'clock and the crowd of black bearded, bonyfaced farmers, with their huge rawhide boots, that had congregated since early evening, was beginning to drift away one by one to their homes in the backwood. Suddenly the telephone bell rang out sharp and clear, and Deegan quitting his past by the money drawer, scooted for the booth as though he were making for first base. A voice over the phone informed him that Manager Daab, of the Hoboken team, was at the railroad depot down at Westfield and wanted to see him on a matter of importance. Hastily ordering out his fast trotter, Willie made record time to the station two miles distant. Mr. Daab evidently had grown weary of waiting and vamoosed, for when the pitcher arrived upon the scene no trace of the manager could be found.

Swearing inwardly, no doubt, and consigning the aforesaid Mr. Daab to a very warm place, Deegan turned homeward, wondering on the way how many beers had been appropriated during his absence.

Arriving at the Inn, he could scarcely believe his eyes, when he saw in one of the parlors a crowd of friends waiting to surprise him. Johnny Shea, who had engineered the surprise in connivance with Mrs. Deegan, was highly gratified at the success of his scheme.

Willie accepted the situation with very good grace, and immediately set about making his guests feel at home.

The young men of the party had previously chipped in and invested in a fancy waistcoat for Mr. Deegan that would have caused the Hon. Timothy L. Woodruff to take to the tall timbers. Among those present besides Mr. and Mrs. Deegan were: Messrs. Shea, Reddington, Hayden, Buckley, Cooley, Allen, Gray, Johnson, Frank and Joe Penrose; Mrs. Reddington, the Mesdames Penrose, Miss Finn and Miss Jerman.

The Scotch Plains hotel, of which Mr. and Mrs. Deegan are the proprietors, has quite an interesting history. Built over 140 years ago, many quaint colonial relics are still to be seen, especially the old-time fireplace with its huge kettle. The immortal Washington is said to have found rest and refreshment there in 1778, while pursuing the elusive General Clinton across New Jersey, which chase culminated at the battle of Mommouth, where that other celebrated Pitcher (Molly) earned undying fame.

Thanksgiving Day was observed in the customary way at St. Ann's Church for Deaf-Mutes. Rev. Dr. Chamberlain officiated at the morning service, and was assisted by Lay-Reader Keiser. The altar was tastefully decorated with fruits by the fair hands of Mrs. Adolph Pfeiffer and Mrs. Susan Knox. In the guild room a turkey dinner was given to eight deaf-mutes, one of them deaf, dumb, and blind, another a paralytic, and still another, 70 years old, who was brought from the Blackwell's Island Almshouse for the day. A score or more of deaf-mute families received, at their several homes, turkeys and all the other things that go to make a good Thanksgiving dinner. The money for the charitable work was contributed by the deaf parishioners of St. Ann's, and other deaf-mutes, who sympathized with the movement.

The many friends of Mr. John H. Keiser, layreader of the Church Mission to Deaf-Mutes, are congratulating him upon successfully passing his first examination for Priest's Orders. Mr. Keiser has been studying at the General Theological Seminary. A year ago he passed the examination for the Diaconate. The examining board, in each case, did not favor him on account of his deafness, nor even on account of his special qualifications for work in the field for which he is destined. Nevertheless, he took high rank in each of the studies in which he was examined. His ordination will probably take place some time in January.

Saturday evening, December 8th, there will be a reading by Prof. W. G. Jones, in the Guild room of St. Ann's Church, for the benefit of the Christmas Fund. Mr. Jones' subject will be the "County Fair," one full of fun and mirth, sufficient to keep his audience in an uproar from beginning to end. Now the affair is one which needs all help, as every cent is given is an act of charity, and all who come will have their money's worth. It should appeal to all, and it is hoped a good-sized audience will be present. The reading will begin at eight o'clock sharp, so come early. The small admission of fifteen cents is all that is charged.

At the League of Elect Surds' rooms last Saturday, Nov. 24th, there was a raffle for a fat turkey. Mr. Alex L. Pach was the lucky winner, and Henry Schuerman captured the second prize. The result of the raffle was $4.88 profit for the League and a fat turkey for Mr. Alex L. Pach, and a cash prize for Mr. Schuerman. The League of Elect Surds will give something of a novelty in the line of entertainment to their friends, in January, if nothing should arise to prevent arrangements now being planned by the Entertainment Committee.

George Pantzer, as he is known on the stage, or George McKeranah, has finished a tour with Robbins' Circus, and is now taking a much-needed rest in this city before taking another tour of the States. On Sunday, he took Mr. Eddie McKeranah and Mrs. Jennie McKeranah, his parents, to Martin's cafe for a regal supper. The parents felt elevated to sweldom. Their home, 118 West 143d Street, is always filled with their deaf-mute friends in evenings.

At the Annual Election of officers for 1907, at the Brooklyn Club Sunday afternoon, the following were elected: President, H. Pierce Kane; Vice-President, John D. Shea; Cor. Secretary, S. Rosenthal; Fin. Sec. retary, Marcus Marks; Treasurer, Peter F. Reddington; Sergeant-at-Arms, John D. Buckley; Board of Governors, William L. Bowers, Chairman, Jas. I. Britt and Frank Eeka.

Eight fine prizes will be awarded at the whist party under the auspices of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League, on Saturday evening, December 8th, in the club rooms at 143 West 125th Street, and experienced whist players are asked to join the tournament upon payment of thirty-five cents per person. Refreshments will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Loew are very happy just now, and are receiving congratulations from their many friends, because the stork visited their home on Saturday, November 24th, and left behind a handsome baby girl. She will be named Marjorie Leontine Loew.

Mr. Emil Basch entertained the Deaf-Mutes' Union League at its last meeting with a series of catchy jokes, parodied from German literature, and he kept the audience on the broad grin for an hour and a half.

Murray Campbell, togged out in a new suit, overcoat, hat and shoes, and all the other fine raiment of a gentleman cantered past his twenty-fifth milestone on December 1st.

Messrs. Geiger and Herring, the former a New Jersey boy who now lives in this city, and the latter one of Newark's prominent deaf-mutes, visited the New York Institution two weeks ago.

Mr. Robert Bray, an artist in glass and copper, is in this city for the winter. He has recently come from Los Angeles, Cal.

Bennie Elkin's industry and faithfulness in the printery of Piser & Russell was rewarded by the presentation of a nineteen-pound turkey for Thanksgiving Day.

Sanford and Dackerman have started into business for themselves as painters and decorators, with headquarters at 279 North 6th Street, Brooklyn.

Julius Wollman, of Larkfield L. I., spent a week with his parents in Brooklyn, on pleasure and business combined.

Mr. and Mrs. Elam Will, of Elizabeth, N. J., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Heyman on Sunday, November 25th.

Mrs. A. Goldfogle's father, died on 19th ult., after a long illness. Her mother, died several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Heyman will start, on December 14th, for an extended stay in the "Sunny South."

Mr. Samuel Frankenheim spent a few days at Hartford, Ct., last week.

Joseph Graham has returned from a stay of two weeks in New England.

The mother of Edward Manning, of Jersey City, is dead.

THE ILLINOIS INSTITUTION.

LIQUID AIR ENTERTAINMENT.

Last Saturday night our pupils were treated to what was perhaps the most wonderful and novel entertainment they had ever seen. Mr. Rugg, of Champaign, Illinois, gave a series of liquid air demonstrations, and for an hour and a half he was a veritable spell-binder. The pupils who saw this exhibition for the first time will certainly have material for their "home" letters, and for "language" work for some time to come.

About thirty-five or forty teachers and friends occupied chairs on the stage so they could better see, hear, smell, taste, and feel of things. In the matter of "feeling," some of the more inquisitive "wanted to know," and they were abundantly satisfied.

Mr. Frank Read interpreted for Mr. Rugg, who introduced his subject by saying that Liquid Air is simply common air such as we breathe every day. It flows like water, tho it is as dry as it can be; it has a distinctly bluish tint, due to the presence of oxygen, just as the clear sky is said to owe its blue color to the oxygen in the air; and altho its temperature is 312 degrees below zero, steel can be melted in the same dish at the same time that grapes and cranberries are freezing hard as rocks. When one recalls the fact that it requires a temperature of 3500 degrees to melt steel, this little experiment assumes the elements of a "paradox," and seems little short of a miracle. This experiment was successfully performed a few moments later, and some of the welded steel pens are now in our museum.

Liquid air is made in Boston, New York, and in Washington, D. C. Mr. Rugg said his was "patriotic" air, having been made in our national capital. This air costs about $25 a gallon, and it is carried in large, double-walled glass globes, holding about two gallons each. They are made of German glass, and they cost $25 apiece. Only one man in the world knows how to make them and he lives in Germany. He isn't telling anyone how he makes them.

Before men knew how to take care of liquid air, they could not keep it more than two days, for it evaporated so rapidly. Now it can be kept for two weeks. It has great expansive power, and it cannot be "corked up" tightly, for it will blow out the cork or break the vessel, no matter if made of thick steel. The large globe in which it is carried is covered with a porous, felt cap, instead of an ordinary cork or stopper.

After pumping out a quantity of liquid air, Mr. Rugg showed how freely it vaporized, and called attention also to its bluish tint. Then he poured some over a few cotton balls and passed them around to the pupils and others. When grasped tightly it feels like you have handful of "busy" bees, and all "doing business."

Next, he poured some into a tea-kettle and set it on a block of ice, which was so hot, by comparison, that vapor was seen to escape vigorously from the spout. It looked just like "the real thing." In a few seconds the kettle was covered with a thick coat of frost and ice, even while held over a flame.

A lady once asked what would happen if she should drink some liquid air. Mr. Rugg told her that her body might expand 800 times! Of course the pupils knew he was joking, and that it was his way of saying that one cubic foot of liquid air contains 800 cubic feet of common air.

With liquid air it is no trick at all to make ice cream. A dish of cream was held over a flame and some liquid air poured over, and in a few seconds he had nice, hard ice cream, which was sampled by many teachers and pupils and was pronounced as good as Vickery and Merrigan could make.

A large bunch of carnations and chrysanthemums were liberally sprinkled, and instantly they became as stiff and brittle as thin glass. A few were crushed in 1000 pieces, and the others were laid on a block of ice where they soon thawed out. In a few moments they were just as fragrant and as beautiful as ever. At no time did they change color and appear pale and limp as is the case when frozen in ordinary way. Perhaps this is because it is a "dry" freeze, and is done so quickly.

When Mr. Rugg attempted to freeze some alcohol and whiskey, Supr. Gillett stepped up and told him, in signs, that if he had any whiskey he would have to saw wood all Saturday afternoon. Of course, all the boys and girls appreciated the joke.

The older pupils enjoyed the mercury hammer perhaps the best of all. A small pen-box was filled with mercury, and a wooden hammer-handle was placed in the center. Liquid air was then poured over this for a few seconds, and then the pasteboard was torn off and a solid hammer of mercury was shown. The mercury was frozen so hard around this handle that a large spike was driven into a board without breaking the hammer. All the pupils had a chance to see or feel or lift the hammer for themselves. In a few moments it was all melted again.

Everyone knows it is very difficult to freeze rubber; but when some air was poured over a rubber ball, it broke into several pieces when thrown to the floor. Some pieces were picked up and held, but not long nor tightly.

A very pretty demonstration was given by pouring some liquid air into a glass jar of distilled water. The nitrogen vaporizes at a lower temperature than the oxygen. As the nitrogen boils away, leaving the oxygen behind, the drops of oxygen begin to sink in the water because it is heavier. As these drops sink, they are partially turned to vapor, which of course tends to rise thru the water. This effect is very pretty as these drops are sometimes as large as an inch in diameter.

Liquid air is used to some extent in hospitals as a local anesthetic in surgical operations. If it could be made less expensive, it might well be used in destroying garbage, for it burns hairfelt, tin cans, and all kinds of refuse without smoke and odor, and with little or no ash. Hairfelt is very difficult to burn in the ordinary.

Since it is used in surgery, some of the deaf hoped it might sometime be used to cure deafness.

The above represents most of the demonstrations given Saturday night, tho not all. A great many more may be and have been made, and still liquid air is yet in its infancy.

E. S. HENNE.

Don't be Afraid to Work.

One thing that keeps young men down is their fear of work. They aim to find genteel occupations, so they can dress well, and not soil their clothes and handle things with the tips of their fingers. They do not like to get their shoulders under the wheel, and they prefer to give orders to others, or figure as masters, and let some one else do the drudgery. There is no doubt that indolence and laziness are the chief obstacles to success.

When we see a boy who has just secured a position take hold of everything with both hands, and "jump right into his work," as if he meant to succeed, we have confidence that he will prosper. But if he stands around, and asks questions, when told to do anything, if he tells you this or that belongs to some other boys to do, it is not his work; if he does not try to carry out his work in the correct way; if he makes a thousand explanations, when asked to run an errand, and makes his employer think that he could have done the whole thing himself,—one feels like discharging such a boy on the spot, for he was not cut out for success. The boy will be cursed with mediocrity, or will be a failure. There is no place in this century for the lazy man. He will be pushed to the wall.—Success.

The Head on our Pennies.

Have you a penny in your pocket? Poor Fellow! I am sorry for you; but never mind. These are flush times, and you can borrow one of somebody. At any rate we must have a penny for a moment; for the story to be told is of the head which is on each of these small coins that the government sends out; and the story will be better appreciated if we have the head before us.

The head looks like the head of an Indian. Until quite recently this is what I always supposed it to be. It is not. It is an American woman, who for many years was held in admiration both for her beauty and goodness, and who only a few weeks ago passed on to her great reward.

Her name was Keen—Sarah Longacre Keen. She lived in Philadelphia. For thirty-five years she was secretary of the Philadelphia Branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church. Since her death, a picture representing her as she appeared in mature years, has adorned the cover of one of the issues of a publication of the great religious body to which she belonged. The picture justifies all that has been said of the grace and dignity of the woman.

When Sarah was a child of five or six years of age, a delegation of Indians from the northwest visited Washington. They came to see the sights and pay their respects to the Big Chief of the nation. After having spent considerable time at the capital, the Indians were taken to Philadelphia.

Here they were shown the mint. The little girl's father was a fine engraver, and he had official connection with this great money factory. He was a kindly, benevolent man as well, and he invited this delegation of Red Men to some sort of an entertainment at his home. One of the chiefs had his attention attracted to the little Miss, and he was so pleased with her figure and maidenly bearing that in a mood of sportiveness he took off his head-dress and put it on her head. She was not frightened; but lending herself to the enjoyment of the joke she stood for a moment and let the company look at her. Some one present who had both an eye for beauty and artistic skill, was so struck by the appearance which little Sarah Longacre made in her Indian hat, that he sketched her on the spot.

The sketch was engraved by her father. One can easily imagine the love and fond paternal pride with which the likeness was traced and the lines were drawn.

Just then the penny in its present form was about to be issued; but the figure with its face that was to be ornamented had not been chosen. This engraved sketch went into competition for the honor. It was accepted in preference to all others, and the imprint of it was transferred to the neat little pennies which Uncle Sam for so many years has been sending out into the world.

There is much more to be said about this small bit of coin. It is enough to say now, however, that a penny is the symbol of a mighty power for evil and a mighty power for good. As men and women relate themselves to pennies and their multiples they become a curse or a blessing to mankind. It would seem that a piece of money bearing on its face the head of a child, who was sweet and beautiful in her childhood, and who grew into a woman of so rare a character, of such a devoted spirit, and of an influence so wide and beneficent ought, to have about some suggestion of sacredness in the use to which it is to be put.—Ec.

"He's true to God who's true to man:
Wherever wrong is done
To the humblest and the weakest
Neath the all-beholding sun,
That wrong is also done to us,
And they are slaves most base,
Whose love of right is for themselves,
And not for all the race."

Specimen copies sent to any address on receipt of five cents.

Notices concerning the whereabouts of individuals will be charged for at the rate of ten cents a line.

SINCE the introduction of "Private Post Cards," much trouble has resulted to Post Office clerks and others.

The senders do not always comply with the law.

This may be due to either ignorance of the law or neglect in meeting its requirements.

A particular source of trouble is caused by the sender writing messages on the side reserved for the address only.

This is wrong either on Government Postal Cards or on "Private Post Cards," as it renders them liable to extra postage.

In using a Government Postal Card, if anything except the address be written on the side reserved for that purpose, letter-postage charges are made. That is, a Government Postal Card so treated requires the addition of a one-cent stamp. The postal card itself represents one-cent, and the additional one-cent makes the full letter-postage—two cents.

If a newspaper or other clipping be pasted on the side reserved for the written message, the extra one-cent postage stamp is required on the card.

In using "Private Post Cards," anything written on the side reserved for the address, subjects it to letter postage. Therefore, in such cases a two-cent stamp is required; because, unlike the Government Postal Card, it does not represent one-cent postage.

Pasting a clipping from a newspaper upon a "Private Post Card," also makes it necessary to put a two-cent stamp upon the address side of the card.

In some foreign countries, there is a space marked off, and designated upon the address side of "Private Post Cards," for written messages. But, in this country, if these cards be used in the manner above indicated, the letter-postage charge rules and will be made.

If the above is studied, remembered and heeded, by all who read this, much of the annoyance caused by well-meaning friends will be obviated.

In a word, to avoid extra postage on Postal Cards, (1) write nothing but the address on the side reserved for that purpose, and (2) paste nothing on the other side.

In a recent issue of the Silent Hoosier, Editor Hecker reiterates his famous (or infamous) declaration that the sign language is doomed because it is not cultivated. We would infer that Mr. Hecker has in mind at all times only the artistic in signs, as exemplified on the lecture platform. These artists in gesture are found at all, or nearly all of the Institutions wherein the deaf are being educated. But they form but an infinitesimal part of that great body of deaf-mutes who express their thoughts in signs with ease, grace and forcefulness. Some of the most expressive sign makers have but a limited education, yet they can say things so picturesquely, can put so much "soul" into their talk, that the veriest idiot can see that signs have not been taught them, but came to them naturally, or by inspiration.

As to Mr. Hecker's sign creed, as set forth in a number of short paragraphs, it is sufficiently ambiguous to suit the advocates of any or all the methods used in deaf-mute education, and reminds one of the old sea captain's saying: "If so be as how, why then avast."

SEVERAL news items are crowded out this week, but will appear in next issue.

LUTHER HADEN TAYLOR

Luther H. Taylor was born in Oskaloosa, Kansas, in the year 1876, being the second deaf-mute in his family, which contains three silent people. In 1884, he began his course at the Kansas School for the Deaf at Olathe, from which he graduated with honors in 1895.

During his school career he was one of the most striking athletes ever seen at his school. He was at first a catcher, and the quality of his arm could be seen in his swift and accurate throwing to second base to prevent stealing. He was a fine catcher in those days, long before he ever thought of going into the box for his bread and butter. After doing the back-stopping for several seasons, he was transferred to the school's pitching staff and easily become the star of the twirling corps. He played in every game and never lost one at school.

In the spring of 1894, the Kansas School Baseball team, after spending considerable time in practicing for the game with the supposedly strong Paola (Kan.) team, outplayed them in every department, defeating them easily by the score of more than 20 to 2. Luther pitched this game and struck out over twenty men.

In the social life of the school, he was popular among the boys and even with the young ladies. The writer remembers clearly when it was the pitcher's birthday; the larger pupils swarmed around him in hopes of giving him a warm birthday whipping. What did Luther do? He had a cowboy's whip in his hand and kept the crowd at bay, and no one dared touch the future great pitcher on that occasion.

One day during Christmas week an old pupil of the school came on his wheel from Merriam, Kan., to pay his alma mater a short visit. Luther—perhaps it was his first time in life to try on a "horseless auto"—mounted it, and while it was running down a hill, one of its handles gave way, and there was a grand mix-up. He had no money (his parents were poor) to pay for the repairs, so he rolled up his sleeves and did the work himself.

In June, 1895, he graduated at the age of nineteen. He then went to Nevada, Mo., where he played baseball at a salary of fifty dollars a month. The club in a short time failed, leaving Luther in an uneasy position. He afterwards joined the Ateshion (Kan.) club, but was released because he lacked control and was not reliable. But Luther showed great pluck and set a good example of perseverance by not giving up his hopes of in time making himself a star pitcher. He immediately joined the Mattoon (Ill.) Baseball club at seventy-five dollars a month, making a fine record there. Again next year, in 1896, he was seen in a Mattoon uniform, having remained in that town during the previous winter working in a printing office at twenty-five dollars a month.

After the season of 1897, he went to Shreveport, La., where he pitched during the winter and made a great showing there also. The manager of the Shreveport team once said to Luther, "You will be a great pitcher and will find yourself in a big league soon." Luther modestly replied with a laugh, "They are too fast for me, and I have no hope of showing up well in the league." However, the manager's saying came true in a few months when New York, then under Capt. Davis, now of the "White Sox," secured him from Albany, N. Y. Since that he has been with the New York team save for a short time when he was enticed to join another club, soon returning to his old allegiance.

In one winter of three or four years ago he went to San Diego, Cal., for which club he pitched magnificent ball. After the season closed he was presented by his team-mates with a fine gold watch. The inscription on the watch reads as follows: "Luther H. Taylor, from his San Diego team-mates, 1901."

In 1903, he was married to Miss Della Ramsay, of North Carolina, and they have enjoyed a happy wedded life ever since.

Luther is now comfortably off and well to do. He owns a fine farm in Kansas, and between baseball seasons spends his time there when he is not visiting or traveling about for pleasure. Here he is free to indulge his love for dogs and his passion for hunting.

Of simple tastes, modest, loyal to his friends, of whom he has a great number, he holds their liking and esteem. In his journeyings with the New York team, twice champions of the National League, he has

of course, met a great many people and been better known to the general public than almost any other deaf-mute of our time. And it is a pleasure to say that he has always borne himself well and his good name has been a credit to the deaf at large and to his old school at Olathe.—M. in Kansas Star.

CONSECRATION ANNIVERSARY

Out-of-Town Visitors.

News items for this column should be sent to James S. Reider, 1533 North Dover Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Wednesday evening, November 28th, a large number of deaf and their friends attended the moving picture exhibition in the Parish Hall of the Church of the Advocate, 17th and Diamond Streets. It seemed the number was well over two hundred. The exhibition, which was given for the benefit of the general fund of All Souls' Church, afforded an amusing time to its patrons. All Souls' Guild is indebted to the Rector of the Advocate for the gratuitous use of its hall, which is large, and especially adapted for such an exhibition.

Thanksgiving Day passed off quietly among our silent folk. The usual Thanksgiving service was held in the morning at All Souls', and in the evening All Souls' Hall was open to visitors, and all who cared to spend a social time there.

On Saturday evening, December 1st, a number of deaf assembled again in All Souls' Hall to see Prof. Rowland B. Lloyd, of the Trenton School, give the "Story of Packingtown," after Upton Sinclair. It was a treat only in the revelations made, and the big barons of Packingtown ought to be thankful that All Souls' Hall was not crowded on this occasion.

December 8th is the eighteenth anniversary of the consecration of All Souls' Church. It is on Saturday, as was the day in the year of consecration, 1888. The service took place in the morning. The church remained open all day for inspection, and the convenience of visitors, of whom there were many, for it seemed like a holiday of the deaf. It was a peculiarly glad day for us, too. Naturally and rightly we celebrated the day by an entertainment and reception in the evening with open house. It was our first entertainment in our new home, and what happiness there was!

Let us all come together again next Saturday, 8th inst., and celebrate the anniversary. There will be fun in store for us, and afterwards we can talk over old times. Its another little way to help the church, for we pay fifteen cents for admission.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lowell, of Washington, D. C., are visitors at All Souls' on Sunday afternoon. They were married on the 21st of November, and took a honeymoon trip from Washington to Norfolk, Va., thence to New York City by sea, from which place they came here. They are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Tarry, of Upland, and will be at home after December 9th.

Mr. Oscar Weidner, of Birdsboro, was also a visitor at All Souls', yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. McCurdy, of Lansdale, Pa., was another visitor on Sunday.

Mr. H. E. Stevens teaches the Bible Classes at All Souls' during December.

By the death of a lady recently, the Home for Aged and Infirm Deaf may receive a gift of $500 in the course of a year, if we have been correctly informed. The gift will be made through a beneficiary. As details are lacking, we refrain from saying more than that we earnestly hope that this good news will not turn into disappointment.

The dinner of the Gallaudet Club next Monday evening promises to be an enjoyable affair.

John Coffield of Gilbert, Pa., and Cornelius Dever, of Pottsville, were Thanksgiving visitors here. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lipsett, on Sunday evening, a number of deaf met Mr. and Mrs. William Lowell, of Washington, D. C., who were married on November 21st. Mr. Lowell is a clerk in the Pension Office, Washington, D. C.

Among the callers were Mr. and Mrs. F. Buch and daughter, Miss S. Leister, Miss Mary Sperry, Miss L. Schmidt, Miss Ruth Lipsett, Mr. Thomas Jones, Mr. Harry Brandt, Mr. William Wright, Mr. Frank McCoy, Mr. Harry Ashbridge, Mr. Herbert Robb, Mr. Ray Kenney, Mr. E. Reed Robertson, Mr. Joseph Lipsett and Mr. Washington Houston.

The Alumni P. I. D. Basket Ball Team has arranged a game with the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf, Second Team, to be played at the latter's hall on Saturday evening, December 8th. A good game is looked for. The players for Alumni P. I. D. Basket-Ball Team will be George Blong, Alexander McGhee, Edward McGrath, Edward Ormsby and William Cowan. All of them are ex-pupils of the Mount Airy School. Come and see the game. Admission ten cents.

The Mystic Circle as a club seems to be doomed to failure, as a suitable room for club purposes cannot be secured for anything like a reasonable price. The club being few in numbers, cannot afford to pay $25.00 or $30.00 a month for a room and that is the price asked. However, the members propose to stick together, and may in time accomplish what now seems impossible. If nothing better turns up, it will probably resolve into a bowling club for the present winter and hold weekly sessions at the Washington Alleys.

Mr. Oscar Schiffer and Miss Winona V. Holmes were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Saturday evening, November 24th. The ceremony was performed by Dr. W. H. DeMotte, and was witnessed only by the near relatives of the contracting couple. Mr. Schiffer is employed as a bench machinist by the Pope Waverly Motor Car Co., and will shortly establish his bride in a home that he has been preparing for some time. Congratulations.

Spencer, Ind., is rapidly acquiring a deaf colony of large proportions. There are now seven of them there, Geo. E. Wilson being the latest acquisition. To "Roley Poley" Ed. Leach belongs the honor of being the original Spencerite, he having been imported as repair man by the Spencer Glass Co., some time ago. Others soon followed. Eddy never lacks company, no matter where he goes.

Sam Ottenbacher has returned to town, and will probably go to work at Stout's in the near future.

Miss Louisa Heede contemplates a trip to Cincinnati soon.

MICHIGAN CITY.

Chas. Merchant came back from Gary Ind., to secure employment in the casting foundry. He expects to be an iron molder, December 1st.

Fred Looney is talking of going to Indianapolis to see his old acquaintances, a few days before Christmas Day. He will no doubt have an enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob F. Arnot, of Delphi, came to live with their son, Harry, through summer and spring. In the spring they return to Delphi. Jacob secured light work in the core-making department of the foundry.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Hegelmeyer another five-pound boy, November 6th. Mother and baby are doing nicely. Mr. Hegelmeyer has a good position in the chair factory. He has been employed there more than ten years.

The district conference of the M. E. Mission for the Deaf will be held at South Bend, December 30th. It is arranged by Rev. Hasenstab, of Chicago, with the aid of his three exhorters—viz., Asbury Arnot, of South Bend, Cope, of La Porte, and H. Arnot, of Michigan City. A large attendance from the surrounding cities and counties is expected. A big dinner will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Augustine of Rossville, Ind., entertained a party in honor of Michael's birthday on the 18th ult. At noon a big dinner was served. The afternoon was spent in conversation.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. Bader, Mr. and Mrs. Lipman Griesheimer, Mr. and Mrs. John Kinzery, Miss Ada Richardson, James Frounfelter, Henry Peters, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. John Teague.

A bowler in fifty games will walk a little over five miles and with his ball weighing sixteen pounds will lift a little less than six tons. This exertion does not include the actual swing. Apply the energy thereby wasted to shoveling four tons of coal; add it to the lifting and walking, and you have all that a star bowler does in one long match.

Bowlers, playing all the evening, will throw in an hour about one ton of wood down the alley.

If this energy could be applied to bringing in wood for "wifey" or fixing the furnace, the divorce court judge might find time to go on a fishing trip.—Indianapolis News.

Rev. A. W. Mann will hold services for the deaf at Trinity Church in Anderson, Monday, December 10th, at 10:30 A.M., and at Grace Church, in Muncie at 7:30 P.M., the same day.

Don't forget the celebration at St. Alban's on December 8th. All are welcome.

Frank McGibbons, a 16-years-old deaf-mute, of Rushville, has been committed to the Eastern Indiana Insane Hospital at Richmond for treatment.

Carl Ellis recently returned from an excursion to Niagara Falls and Toronto.

Supt. Johnson is spending some time in Chicago on business connected with our new school.

George W. Arnot has been persuaded by the Marietta Glass Co., to return his old job as bill cutter in their plant here.

Isaac McCollum has returned from Indian Territory to accept a position in the institution kitchen.

N. Lee Harris has for the sixteenth time announced that he will quit bowling for good. Which means that you will find him shoveling wood down the alleys every Saturday eve unless he has particular business elsewhere. He just can't quit.

Orson H. Archibald has finished developing a large part of the pictures he took in old Mexico last summer, and finds them good. He will probably show them this winter.

George Schultz, of Richmond, seems very much drawn towards Columbus, O., lately. We will tell you the reason soon.

Reuben Simmons, Carl Ellis, John McCarty, George Beyers, and William Marsden, were in town Thanksgiving Day.

MARRIED.

LOWELL—SENKIND.

The announcement of the marriage of Mr. William Lowell and Miss Kate Senkind, both of Washington, D. C., burst like a cannon of us.

A romance which started about five years ago, resulted in a happy marriage on Wednesday afternoon, November 20th. The wedding took place at Lutheran Church, where the relatives of both parties only witnessed the event.

The writer is not skilled in the description of female attire, but he will say that the bride has shown herself of attractive appearance in wedding costume.

After the reception was given, the bridegroom and the bride took their carriage at once, but other followers already got ahead of them at Washington and Norfolk Depot. The couple took their heels through the showers and took refuge on board. They were supposed to be the only cabin passengers aboard the vessel, and perhaps they have sampled all the state-rooms of the first cabin, during their trip. They will spend two weeks of craning their necks in New York, and other cities, and also studying house-keeping. They will make their future home at 400 5th Street, N. E., Washington, D. C., on December 6th.

The bridegroom has been in the government service, and his painstaking, faithful and laborious work, commanded his excellent promotion last October.

Their friends sincerely wish them happy and prosperous life.

Struck by a Car.

SCHENECTADY, Dec. 7.—William Gallagher, aged 25, a deaf-mute residing at 805 Eastern Avenue, was struck by a Rosendale Road car on Eastern Avenue in the vicinity of DeGraff Street about 11 o'clock last night, and may be fatally injured. The car, which was No. 720, in charge of Motorman Miller and Conductor Cossey, was going down Eastern Avenue at the usual rate of speed when, the motorman states, a man stepped onto the track near DeGraff Street, directly in front of the car.

The car was so close to the man when he started to cross the track that he did not have time to get in front of it, but was hit by the side of the car. The motorman declares that he was running at a slow rate of speed and brought his car to a stop within a car's length of where the accident occurred.

The injured man was picked up unconscious and the company's physician, Dr. Van Vranken, was immediately sent for. The doctor had the ambulance summoned and Mr. Gallagher was taken to the hospital. There it was found that he was suffering from a severe scalp wound, and probably a fractured skull. At 2:30 o'clock this morning the injured man had not recovered consciousness and it was impossible to tell just how serious his injuries were.

Assistant Superintendent Hamilton of the Railway Company stated that the cars are run very slowly over the lower part of Eastern Avenue, both on account of the newness of the road and the arrangement of the schedule which calls for slow time along that line.

What the Bishop Said

While Bishop Ames was presiding over a certain Conference in the West, a member began a tirade against universities and education, thanking God that he had never been corrupted by contact with a college.

"Do I understand that the brother thanks God for his ignorance?" "Yes," was the answer; "you can put it that way if you want to." "Well," said the Bishop, "all I have to say is that the brother has a good deal to thank God for."—The Pacific.

FROM BUFFALO

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 30.—If you are in something of a pundary for a good time, come to Buffalo. The second annual reception and ball under the auspices of the St. Francis DeSole's Benevolent Society for the Deaf will go into history with flying colors. It was a great gathering, both in the amount of work done and the quality of that work.

The magnificent plea for Catholic union, for the mobilization of the now scattered and distracted forces into one grand, individual effort for the uplift of humanity elicited unstinted applause.

The happiest woman in the world to-day is Miss Mary Alice Carroll, who to the fullest extent of her power is joyfully giving herself to the service of our humanity, who thinks of self last, if at all, and who finds her happiness in the happiness she is able to make for those around her.

Mr. McCann, a philosopher, wandering through many countries, makes his twentieth century resort in Buffalo.

To the dance came such a bright mind; we will not awaken prejudices by telling what statesmen and scholars he resembled in brow, eye, lip, gait; but he was the whole thing.

There was no prettier sight than that of the company of young men and women in the brightly lighted hall, dancing to music. It was a pretty sight—and I believe it was as right and proper as it was beautiful.

Mr. Frederick T. Lloyd, of Sidney, N. Y., attended the reception and ball.

Miss Mary Carroll was perfectly gowned charming in manner and most attractive in deportment and conversation.

Miss Knorr was the star dancer.

To say that with the officers of the St. Francis DeSole's Benevolent Society who have won this grand success, it was a simple problem in mathematics—so much industry, duty, devotion, painstaking care and unconquerable will for so much success is to put it all too mildly.

Mr. Helmer was strictly attentive to the duty that he owed the society, invariably civil and courteous to all, and, above everything else, an unfaltering believer in the proposition that what he ought to do and earnestly desired to do, he would be enabled to do.

Mr. Spalin was, as the expression goes, "all there."

HARRY CHANDLER.

On Tuesday, November 27th, in the evening, at 10021 Wilbur Avenue S. E., Cleveland, Ohio, the Rev. Austin Ward Mann, M.A., administer the Sacrament of Holy Baptism to his grandson, Daniel Ward Sanders. The Rev. Charles C. Bubb B. D., Rector of Grace Church, read the formula for Infant Baptism for the hearing relatives and friends present. The sponsors were Charles Wesley Sanders (the father), Warren Howard Mann and Miss Anna Belle Sanders. It is believed that this is the first instance in the history of the Church since Apostolic times of a deaf-mute Priest, or Presbyter, administering Baptism to a grandson of his own.

CALLAUDET COLLEGE.

The Freshies and Duckies Play a Tie.

ON THANKSGIVING DAY.

East Wing Items.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

GALLAUDET COLLEGE, Dec. 3, 1906.—The Thanksgiving holidays are past and reviewing for the first term exams, which are not far off, begins this week.

The Student Dance given Friday night was a success, as usual. The attendance was somewhat smaller than the average, and as a consequence there was no complaint of a crowded floor, as is most often the case at dances given in the dining hall.

Among those who attended from outside the Green were Mr. Bedell, '91, and Mrs. Bedell, Mr. Stewart, '99, Mr. Forse, ex-'06, and Mr. Leitch, ex-'07.

Percival Fay spent Thanksgiving with his parents on the Green and attended the Student Dance.

Because the regular date for their next meeting fell on a holiday, the "Lit" met in the chapel at 1:05, Wednesday afternoon, and rendered the following program:

LECTURE—"The Basis of a National Government," Mr. Ballard, '06.

DEBATE—Resolved, That examinations are a true test of scholarship and proficiency. Affirmative side, Mr. Holway, '08. Mr. Preston, '06. Negative side, Mr. Malloch, '08. Mr. Holliday, '09.

DIALOGUE—"Mike gets a job." Mr. Isaacson, '10, and Mr. Morris, I. C.

DECLAMATION—"November," Mr. Bailey, I. C.

Critic's Report.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Ballard for his lecture, which was the feature of the meeting.

The judges of the debate, Messrs. Horton, '07, McFarlane, '10 and Cooper, '08, decided in favor of the Negative side.

The annual football game between the Freshmen and Introducing Classes was played Thanksgiving morning.

The contest was exciting and close and ended in a tie, neither side scoring. This result was somewhat of a surprise. The Freshies outweighed their opponents by a good margin and had the advantage of more experience and a larger number of varsity players in their line up, but were outplayed in most departments of the game. Shanklin, for the Freshman, with the wind at his back, punted little better than did Bell, I. C., against the breeze, which was pretty strong throughout the game. When the sides changed goals in the second half, Bell had decidedly the best of the punting.

But for the poor work of Jones, I. C., at quarter after he was shaken up in stopping big Sharp in a pretty open field tackle, the Ducks might have scored toward the close of the game.

After this incident Jones was unreliable in giving signals and passing the ball, except for an occasional good gain on quarter back runs. Shanklin put up a very weak game at quarter for the Freshmen. Sharp was the star for his class, playing harder in the game than he has ever done for the Varsity and being laid out more than once from his efforts. Mosey, Vinson, Bailey, Bell and Hower did the best for the Ducks.

The Freshmen won the toss and kicked off with the north wind at their back. Sharp broke up the first play and Bell punted to the center of the field.

Shanklin in turn had to punt. From the Ducks' 25-yard line, Mosey advanced the oval five and again twenty-five yards around left end, then Hower placed it five yards past the center, where it went over on downs. Shanklin was thrown without gain, and Sharp fumbled. Cadwell received the ball and Shanklin punted out of bounds. Toomey, '10, got the oval, which was put into play on I. C.'s 20-yard mark. Sharp fumbled again, Talbert getting the ball on his own 30-yard line. Bell punted against the wind to center field, where Hower recovered the ball. Hower and Mosey made five between them. Bell punted and Shanklin fumbled after bringing the ball back to his 40-yard line, but the Ducks in their turn promptly fumbled and Cadwell fell on the ball.

Sharp and Shanklin each made seven yards, when Talbert again got the pigskin on a fumble by Shanklin. After the Ducks had made an advance of fifteen yards, the ball went over on downs, but after three plays. Another fumble by Shanklin gave the Ducks the ball near the center of the field, where time was called for the first half.

With the wind in their favor in the second half the Ducks kept the oval well into their opponents' territory during most of the half.

Sharp received the first kick off, and Mosey pulled him down on his head in tackling him, was not hurt. Shanklin failed twice on attempts at the quarter-back run, being penalized for hurdling the first time. An exchange of punts, put the oval within ten yards of Class '10's goal. Shanklin made twenty on a quarter-back run, but Byrne came through and threw him for a loss when he tried it again.

Shanklin then punted to mid-field, where Bull recovered the pigskin.

After Sharp had made ten, and Shanklin five, Sharp got a clear field and made twenty, before being tackled by little Jones. Byrne again nailed Shanklin for a loss on the next play.

A forward pass failed to work, and the ball went over on the Ducks' 30-yard mark. A short punt and recovery netted fifteen yards for the Introductory Class. After Hower had made eight on two chances Bell got off a good punt over Shanklin's head. The latter fell on the ball within five yards of his own goal. He soon punted from under the cross bar to the 25 yard line. Mosey made three and Bell bucked for four. Then Bell tried a drop kick, the ball hit the rush line and Mosey got it as it bounded back. A moment later Bell again kicked into the rush line. This time Hower recovered the ball. Time was called with the Ducks in possession of the ball on the Freshmen's 25-yard line, neither side having scored.

The game was clean and free from wrangling, as inter-class games have been of late years.

There was a good attendance of Washington Alumni.

The line-up and the officials of the game are given below:

CLASS OF 10. Toomey, L. E. I. C. Hower, Burkart, L. T. Nies, Bull, L. G. Talbert, Hower, C. R. G. Cohen, C. Jones, R. T. Vinson, Cadwell, E. E. Grace, Dillon, Q. B. L. Jones, Shanklin, R. H. B. Mosey, Sharp, L. H. B. Bailey, Isaacson, F. B. Bell, Bieri.

Umpire—Mr. Horton, '07. Referee—Prof. Hall. Headlinesman—Erickson, '08. Linesmen—Schroeder and Morris, I. C. Timers—Arnold, '10 and Robinson, I. C. Time of game—Two twenty minute halves.

EAST WING ITEMS

Miss Thomason, Normal, spent Thanksgiving vacation with a sister in Philadelphia.

Miss Northrop took Thanksgiving dinner with friends in Laurel, Md.

Miss Mary Gillman, '10, who left college last December, "never to return" has, as have many others, found in Gallaudet such an attraction, that she has again returned to its historic halls.

Miss May Dougherty, ex-'08, was again on the Green last week. She was on her way to take up her new position in the Rome, N. Y., school. The best wishes of Gallaudet friends go with her.

The Ko-ed's Kard Klub, which prides itself on being up to date even to its name, was entertained by Miss Thornton, '07, Saturday evening, December 1st. An unusual feature which was much appreciated by all was the pop-corn served with refreshments. In keeping with it, the "skore kard" was an ingeniously hand-painted ear of corn.

Miss Jones, '08, got the first prize, and Miss Dickson, '07, the booby.

The Jollity Club presented the play, "Anita's Trial," in chapel, Wednesday evening. It was an unusually good play, and was witnessed by a full house. Cast of characters were:—

"Rex," our Greensburg scribe, returned home from Altoona, where he spent Thanksgiving as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Chatham. He is loud in his praises of the liberal hospitality of his genial host and estimable hostess. The Chathams are cordially enounced in their pleasant home at No. 804 Howard Avenue, having last Spring moved from No. 718 Howard Avenue, where they resided for the space of twenty-three years. Just prior to his leaving he took occasion to pay his good friends, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Chatham, and found them well and happy. Their ten months old baby, Iva, is a sweet, lovely little creature, and is the idol of the parents. Mr. Chatham has had a severe attack of bronchitis for the past week, and has resumed his accustomed position in the blacksmithing department of the great Pennsylvania Railroad Company's works in Altoona.

TWO SOCIAL FUNCTIONS

News of the Week.

[News items for this column may be sent to our Ohio News Bureau, care of M. A. B. Greener, 998 Franklin Ave., Columbus, O.]

Dec. 1, 1906.—The regular holiday program for Thanksgiving was carried out, which of course means no school and shop work. Devotional exercises at 9:15, a big dinner at 12:30, a social from 2 to 4, and entertainment in the chapel from 6:45 to 8:15. The dinner was all that could be desired. At each plate was a flower from the institution's conservatory.

The social features in the afternoon, consisting of games, were all enjoyed, and the entertainment in the evening was most pleasing. It was well acted on the part of the performers, who furnished the chapel full of people with a variation of mirth, pathos and excitement. Here is the bill:

At the conclusion of the play, Prof. S. R. Sutton was announced to give a sleight of hand performance. He had as an assistant a little fellow garbed in Japanese costume who was able to talk in signs. But who he was no one knew—later he proved to be Donald Patterson. The tricks given by the professors were mostly on the old line, but were none the less interesting and puzzling to his audience and were accordingly enjoyed.

Up at the Home, the old people were also given a feast of good things. A 20 pound turkey was the center piece with a duck or two as a body guard, and it is safe to say the dinner was heartily enjoyed for the Matron, Mrs. Byers, when it comes to getting up a feast, knows how to tickle the palate, of her guests.

Over a hundred pupils were remembered with boxes or packages containing good things from home.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cook returned last Friday from their honeymoon trip to Chicago. When in the latter city they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Craig with a party. Mr. and Mrs. Cook will remain in Columbus till about December 4th, when they will go to the former's home near Pittsburg.

Miss Edith Biggam entertained with a party Thanksgiving afternoon, at the home of Miss Buchanan the following: Mrs. Verna Carr Wornstaff, of Zanesville; Miss Hannaford, of Toledo; Miss Cloa Lingle, of Dayton; Miss Bessie McGregor, of Grove City; Miss Bessie Edgar, Miss Ethel Zell; Miss Cloa Lamson, Miss D. Buchanan, Messrs. Louis J. Bacheberle and John H. Boy, of Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Clum. Most of the time was passed in talk, and after the serving of a splendid supper the whole company came to the entertainment at the institution.

The following out-of-town people spent Thanksgiving Day in the city with friends, and were at the institution entertainment in the evening: Mr. and Mrs. Stokes, of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cook, of Pittsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hices, of Jeffersonville; Mrs. Verna Carr Wornstaff, of Zanesville; Misses Blanche Coppock and Bessie Riddle, of Bradford; Oren Riddle, of Piqua; Messrs Louis J. Bacheberle and John H. Boy, of Cincinnati; Frank Reitman, of Springfield; Edward Sarber, of Cleveland; Ray Geer, of Sommerford; and Ezra Hedges, of Ashville; Mrs. Hannaford, of Toledo.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Greener, at their home on Franklin Avenue, tendered a social party last evening to the following: Miss Clara Lingle, of Dayton; Mrs. Verna Carr Wornstaff, of Zanesville; Mrs. Jansen Albert, of Dayton; Miss Bessie McGregor, of Grove City; Mrs. Hannaford, of Toledo; Misses Bessie Edgar, Zell, Lamson, Buchanan, Nellie and May Greener, Mrs. John K. Sherman, and Messrs. A. H. Schory, Louis Bacheberle and John H. Boy, of Cincinnati;

Geo. Greener and Ernest Zell. The guests were kept busy part of the evening with a "Dry Goods" game, which proved a knotty subject for most. Dainty refreshments, consisting of cheese sandwiches, fruit salad, California olives, chocolate and apples, were served.

Miss Ella Zell, with a brother from Baltimore, left this morning for a week's visit to relatives down in and about Dayton.

The Ladies' Aid Society held its regular meeting last Thursday evening in the Library of the Institution. The Visiting Committee to the Home reported a list of articles needed, and it was ordered purchased. It was also agreed to have a grate and mantel placed in the reception room. Mrs. A. B. Greener and Mrs. Albert Ohlemacher and Miss Ida Adair were appointed a nominating committee to bring in a list of names from which officers are to be chosen at the next regular meeting, December 20th. Mr. A. H. Schory was invited into the meeting to convey a message to the members from the Chicago Ladies' Aid Society, which was given him at a meeting he attended last summer, and he was admonished to deliver it in person. When he was ushered in to the presence of the twenty-seven members at the meeting he must have gotten "stage struck," for all he uttered was "Greetings," and then quickly retired, leaving the members who had expected a long speech in a wondering mood.

The Columbus Branch of the Gallaudet College Alumni Association, at its regular meeting Thursday evening, choose the following officers to serve during the year: Mr. A. Schory, president; Wm. H. Zorn, vice-president; Miss Ethel Zell, secretary; Miss Bessie McGregor, treasurer; Mr. Wm. H. Zorn and Miss Ethel Zell, committee on arrangements. The committee on arrangements was empowered to consult Superintendent Jones looking to the proper observance of Gallaudet Day.

Mr. Nathan R. McGrew, among the older of the Ohio Institution Alumni, and living at Gilman, Ia., is still hale and hearty and not at all afraid to work—really he likes the latter, and would consider it time wasted to be idle. He attended the church meeting by Rev. P. J. Hasenstab, at Grinnell, Ia., on the 21st ult. He sends us the following taken from the Gilman Dispatch of the 22d ult.:

"A man (?), pretending to be a deaf-mute was peddling soap here Friday. He did quite a business, people buying through sympathy for the supposed afflicted one. In the evening he was waiting at the station for the southbound passenger, when N. R. McGrew tackled him for a talk with the fingers. The stranger, evidently an impostor, immediately had business elsewhere and in his haste to get away from an honorable deaf-mute he forgot his grip, but when the train pulled in he dodged into the station, grabbed his grip and quickly got aboard the train. A number of men followed him from the station and he would probably have been roughly handled had they found him before the train arrived."

The Independents went up to Delaware Thanksgiving noon, and tackled the High School eleven team in the afternoon before quite a crowd. The game was spirited, and resulted in a victory for the Independents, 6 to 0. Wm. Cook and Alonzo Kingry, the latter, who came from a visit to Marion, witnessed the game.

NEWARK NOTES.

Frank E. Ingraham, a six footer, still works in the Jewett Car Works, gets good wages, lives happily with his wife and two children, and has been in the town the last fifteen years.

Frank Masterson, educated in the Indianapolis school, left his home in Hartford a year ago, and secured work as a chair worker in the largest factory of this town.

Mr. J. C. Pier, former porter at the Columbus institution for the deaf, has been residing in town for a number of years, and earns his bread and butter in one of the city's iron foundries.

Wm. Hoyt and George Fox, who left school a year or so ago, are respectively employed as teamster, and painter, and manage to earn a good living.

ZANESVILLE SHORTS

Messrs. Pat Connolly and Harry Romoser, of Columbus, were in town recently on a visit to friends, and on business. They left taking away each a suit made by the Zanesville's deaf tailor, A. J. Horn. What is more they are proud of the fit, and make up.

Mrs. Rufus Callison departed for her home in Huntington, W. Va., last week, having greatly enjoyed her visit among old friends here.

Eugene White makes frequent visits to Newark. Must be something very attractive there.

John Greiner is studying the book system of cutting and measuring, and hopes to make a success of it.

The other day, during a hard rain and wind storm, A. J. Beckert was skidooring at a 2:40 rate along the streets with an open umbrella. A strong gust of wind came along, and made short work of the covering, and when he reached his establishment, he had the appearance of just having come out of a river. It won't do to ask him where his umbrella was at the time of the rain.

The Four Little Tailors, of Zanesville, wish to extend their heartiest congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Cook on their marriage, and wish them a prosperous and happy journey.

Misses Beckett, White and Greiner, will help the Ladies' Fair along by sending a lot of pattery ware from Zanesville's factories, while Mr. Horn will see that the confectionery booth gets a good supply of sweets, from his cousin Fred Forester, a leading Columbus confectioner, whose store is at 3355 High Street. By the way, Columbus deaf desiring a good article of sweets had better call at his store, they will be welcomed and treated well.

Miss Atkinson, formerly a matron at the institution, is employed as clerk in one of the leading fruit stores of Zanesville.

James Andrews, who left school last June, is now working as a farm hand at Dillon Falls.

Martin Lincolme is back at his work from a three weeks' vacation in Noble County.

Miss Mary C. Bierce stopped over in this city Friday and Saturday on her way to Circleville from Cleveland to spend Thanksgiving day with her sister. She returned to Columbus yesterday to attend the Ladies' Fair this afternoon and evening.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

May be it is not too late to relate some incidents that have taken place since the last letter to this paper. "Better late than never."

Hallowe'en the new club of boys, "Silent Outing club," gave an entertainment in the Parish House of St. Luke's Church. Mr. Ira Todd told of the origin of Hallowe'en. Mr. C. Snyder told a story. Mr. A. Kowski gave a speech, and so on. The room was decorated with pumpkins, Jack O'lanterns, corn stalks. Games of hunting for chestnuts, cutting a face in a pumpkin, trying to get a bite of an apple suspended from the ceiling by a string, etc., were gone through. Miss A. Stevens won the prize for flading the most nuts, C. Peterson for getting a face in a big yellow pumpkin first, N. Oliver for biting the apple. The money from the sale of tickets was given Rev. Smilean.

The bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Tift (nee Olga Crane), have moved from Parsells Avenue to William Street.

Mr. Delos C. Burdell, who has been at the Deaf-Mute Institution here ever since he was a little tot in dresses, first as a pupil, and then as older boys supervisor has resigned to accept a position in boat-building at which he is an expert in Baldwinville, N. Y. We all wish him the best of success.

Misses Lizzie Moore, Minerva Naylor, from Atlanta, N. Y., was here to attend the ball given by the Black Gill Club boys Wednesday evening, November 28th. The gentlemen from out of town who attended were Messrs. M. Chapman, Peasland, Pasko, Seeley, Staubitz, of Buffalo.

The ball was quite well attended and the boys feel rewarded for their hard work.

Under the auspices of Mr. E. P. Wood, his wife, Messrs Peterson and DeYoung a Festival was given for the benefit of the Christmas Fund about two weeks ago. Pantomime and games were the features of the evening. Each one there wrote his and her name to a number, Mrs. Wm. Gibbs number won a cuckoo clock.

Coffee, biscuit, sandwiches, and cake were served. About $8 was raised to make the children of deaf parents of this city happy at Christmas time.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Heffman gave a surprise party at their cosy home in honor of Miss Ada Stevens Saturday, December 1st.

The house in which Mr. and Mrs. Keller but recently moved has been sold and they are looking for another. They are thinking of buying one so they can stay and not have to get out again for some time.

Mrs. A. Hockstul has been visiting her chum, Mrs. Lincoln Thompson, of Unda, N. Y. Had a most delightful time and was sorry to leave.

Mrs. Davis spent a week in Buffalo recently.

Messrs. Williams and Amnuth have wiped the dust of Rochester off their feet. The latter goes back to Elmira, and Mr. Williams to Buffalo.

Mr. S. DeYoung has been chosen Chairman in Mr. Wood's place. His work begins with the Christmas Festival.

TOM.

Husband—For whom are you knitting those stockings?

Wife—For a benevolent society.

Husband—Do you know, you might send them my address. Perhaps they would send me a pair.

Anniversary Day at the Institution

SOME MOVING PICTURES

An Enjoyable Thanksgiving

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Exercises commemorating the double event of the removal of the institution from Fiftheth Street to its present site and the birthday of our former Principal, Isaac Lewis Peet, LL.D., were held in the chapel on Tuesday afternoon last.

In the absence of the Principal, who was compelled to go to town to attend a meeting of the Board of Directors, the meeting was conducted by Dr. Fox. After the salute was given to the colors and the recital of the Lord's Prayer by the entire school, Dr. Fox, after apologizing to the audience for the enforced absence of the Principal and delivering a message from him, read an admirable paper giving in detail the history of the removal of the institution. It was full of interest and enjoyed by all.

Following him came Mr. Gardner, who stated that the subject had been so thoroughly covered by Dr. Fox that he would branch out in another direction. He then gave us a good, sound talk, using "Think" for his text.

Dr. Fox then announced that amends would be made for the past and that we would now hear from the lady teachers. The lady teachers are very bashful and after a long time Miss Barrager was coaxed to say a few words. She responded in her usual clear and perfect signs. She spoke about some of the old time teachers whom most of us had never seen and heard of only by reputation.

Mrs. Wilcox, our matron, was called upon to tell how it would seem and how much work it would entail if we were to move now. The task seemed to be so enormous and the length of time it would take to describe, that our worthy matron bashfully declined.

Following Miss Barrager, Mr. Jones told in his usual forceful signs about the condition of the furnishings of the institution, contrasting it with the comfort and elegance of that of today.

At the completion of Mr. Jones' address, Dr. Fox, who, as is well known, is a brilliant product of the Institution, reminded us that it was also the birthday of Dr. Peet, and touched upon the characteristics of him while living. The supply of orators was by this time almost exhausted, when Dr. Fox discovered in one corner of the chapel our brilliant editor, Mr. Hodgson, of the JOURNAL. He immediately invited him to the platform and we were given an elegant description of the removal of the institution as Mr. Hodgson once saw the late Prof. C. W. Van Tassel give it at a previous anniversary.

Mr. Burdick was then called, and he told us about the changes that he had noticed in the last ten years that he has been connected with the institution.

The last member to join the teachers' staff, Mr. Dohyns, was then invited to the rostrum. He has been so impressed with our educational pioneers and everything connected with the institution during his short stay here, that he told us we ought to be proud of our brilliant history.

After a few further remarks, and again saluting the colors, we were dismissed and told that the rest of the day would be a holiday.

Tuesday evening, December 4th, was spent in the chapel. The pupils lined up at 7:45 and marched to their places. The room was darkened, and a few steps from the main entrance stood a moving picture outfit. Back of the platform was hung a large white cloth, edged with bands of red. Principal Currier mounted the platform, and standing in the spot-light, made a few remarks. He spoke of the fact that it was the fiftieth anniversary of the removal of the Institution to Fanwood from Fiftheth Street and Fifth Avenue. Also he remarked that as the day was the birthday of Isaac Lewis Peet, LL.D., he wanted it to be especially commemorated.

The motion-picture machine was then started, and quite a variety was shown, ranging from "grave to gay, from lively to severe." The best of the lot was "Climbing the Alps." The pictures showed a successful ascent of the Matterhorn, and also an accident, and a rescue. Many of the teachers and several of their friends were present.

Crisp, cold and beautiful, without a cloud in the blue horizon. Thus dawned Thanksgiving Day, and it was a day long to be remembered by the pupils of this school who remained here for the holiday. The breakfast remained on the tables untouched in some places, the cause of which was ascertained by the fact that the boys wanted to keep their inner man in good condition for the final onslaught upon his majesty the turkey. "A number of those arrived the day before, and were decorating the hooks in the meat room, waiting for the oven the next day. After breakfast the boys got out the basket-ball and used it instead of a foot-ball, as they said. They kept kicking the pigskin until they were tired, and then passed the remainder of the morning in conversation. The Thanksgiving Dinner was served at one o'clock, and as the pupils were marching into the dining room, they glared at the slices of turkey, etc. Then the grace before meat was recited, during which Principal Currier, was present with Mr. Thatcher M. Adams, Secretary of the Board of Directors.

No one pitied the poor waiters. Dish after dish was brought and disappeared in short time. There was no limit as to how much one should eat, as all knew the bounty of the Institution was unlimited. After the meal every one laughed to see the pupils stagger under the load they carried. Some one asked the Principal for permission to slide down the spiral escape, which was graciously given. Boys and girls were soon sliding down, while Messrs. Cooke and Van Tassel were at the exits handing out the pupils as they appeared. After that the boys indulged in various games until time to go in, while the girls walked up and down in squads. All were glad to go to bed early that night, as all were tired. They were sorry the next day was not a repetition of the preceding one.

Monday afternoon, the pupils and teachers were summoned to the chapel. Principal Currier was present and welcomed all with his usual smiles and "I am glad to see you all." With him was a Miss Beckett from England, who, with many others sent by Sir Mosely, are in this country to learn the different methods used in educating the deaf.

After being introduced to the pupils on the platform by Principal Currier, she made a short address, in which she spoke of her mission and hoped that she might be able to learn American methods.

Miss Beckett was an instructor in kindergarten herself and was very glad to see the kindergarten classes in school in company with Principal Currier. Also she was shown through the Academic Grades by Dr. Fox, who explained the different courses of study which the older pupils go through. Miss Beckett expressed herself as very much pleased with what she has seen and heard here.

Saturday afternoon last, some of the pupils obtained permission to go to theatres and had good times.

The following, which will be of interest to many who know him, was taken from the editorial column of the Kansas Star, which relates to Prof. William H. Weeks, a graduate of Fanwood:—

"Prof. William H. Weeks, teacher in the American school, Hartford, Ct., celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday on the 1st of November. He has been teaching the deaf, continuously, for fifty-seven years. He is a graduate of the Fanwood school, New York City."

The pupils returned from their Thanksgiving vacation on Monday morning, December 3d, looking as if they had they certainly been benefited by the short rest. The majority of them, as usual, arrived here before 11 o'clock. There were hardly any late at all.

Our Ignorance.

After all are we not still ignorant of much which we feel we ought to understand? Apart from the great laws of electricity, light and heat, about which we know something, but certainly not all, are we not almost hopelessly ignorant of some of the laws which govern the lives of animals? Do we know for instance, what is the law which makes it possible for a bee carried five or six miles from her home, blind in a dark box, to find her way back to the hive? What is the sense exercised by the antennae of the virgin moth which, set out in a muslin box on a lawn, attracts suitors scattered away in all the country round? What is the attraction felt or choice decided upon by the tendrils of the climbing plant which turns aside from the smooth wall to catch at and wrap round the nail or the ledge or the projection which is to help it upward? All that is unknown, hardly even guessed at, and if there is so great an ignorance of what can be seen, is it logically to be argued that there is a greater ignorance of what is unseen? One thing at least is certain—the reality of that ignorance.—London Spectator.

Like Being in Love.

"There's one redeeming feature about seasickness," remarked the passenger in a tourist's cap, as he looked out on the waters.

"What's that?" asked the slim party with a sawlow look.

NEW ENGLAND.

Gustav A. Converse is dead.

RELIGIOUS NEWS

J. C. Underwood a Benedict.

[Any New England News or business for the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL may be sent to Geo. C. Sawyer, 93 W. Seldon St., Mattapan, Mass.]

The deaf-mute community of Boston and vicinity were thrown into a gloom of sadness by the death of Mr. Gustav A. Converse last Monday, November 19th, at 3 P.M., he passed away peacefully after three weeks' suffering with a complication of diseases.

The fact that he died on the fiftieth anniversary day of his wedding minus only five hours, and for which he and his wife had made great preparation to celebrate, made it all the more sad.

Mr. Converse's last appearance among us was when he attended Prof. Fay's service, then he was complaining of not feeling well. A day or two after he was taken very ill, and removed to the Malden Hospital, with the hopes that with skilful nursing he would be well enough to have the Golden wedding celebration go on, but he did not improve, so a few days before his death was taken to his home in Medford, where he died. Around his bed were his wife, a few relatives and intimate friends.

Mr. Converse was born in East Ridge, N. H., January 21st, 1833. Attended the Hartford School. At one time he served on a School Committee in his native town. His wife was Miss Larabee.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, the 21st, at two o'clock, Rev. Mr. Searing officiating, Mr. Frisbee interpreting. Miss Perkins, a friend of the family sang "Nearer My God to Thee," and "We Shall Meet Again." Many beautiful floral tokens showed the esteem in which the deceased was held, among them was one especially beautiful, the ribbon bore the words "From the Silent friends." The interment was at Oak Grove Cemetery.

The theme of Rev. S. S. Searing's sermon delivered at St. Andrew's Mission last Sunday was "Thanksgiving." The sermon made a strong impression among the audience as to their duty, to meditate what they have to thank for, after looking back to the happenings of the past year. That Sunday was Mr. Searing's forty-seventh birthday.

The service were very simple but impressive, with nothing whatever done to celebrate his birthday, a very strong contrast with the services at the Boston Deaf-Mute Society, to which your correspondent attended afterward. One leading member of the Society ventured to express his opinion that the services were more of a "self praising" meeting than anything else, and a sermon of which subject should be appropriate in connection with the Thanksgiving Day should be given, instead of an address by the pastor on his own work during the four years. The fact is that Rev. P. W. Packard planned everything for last Sunday's services to celebrate the fourth anniversary of his pastorate of the Society without consulting the Committee. Yet about seventy-five friends of Mr. Packard from far and near thought otherwise, and paid him their respects by their presence at the services. It cannot be denied that Mr. Packard has faithfully served the Society as a pastor for four years. Neither a blinding snow storm nor drenching rain could prevent him from keeping his engagements, and although he lives the farthest, he was able to be on hand at the society, and on several occasions he preached to near enough empty chairs. For such services, his work should be appreciated by every one, friends or enemies. He sometimes went too far in sermons occasionally, and that was all the fault found in him as the pastor of the Society.

The best evidence and most sincere appreciation of Mr. Packard's services may be shown in the remarks made by Miss A. C. Jennings during the services:

"I think Mr. Packard's work for the last year plainly shows two things, 'promptness and earnestness.' He is always on time, has never missed a Sunday when expected to preach, and has only been absent from three prayer-meetings. Bad weather and small congregations never stand in the way of his duty.

"We may not all believe what he says, but it is plain that he himself believes it. Looking over the list of sermons I have reported, I cannot help seeing how strong they are.

LIST OF SERMONS.

Poverty and Greatness.
The Gospel of Invitation.
Occupy Till I Come.
Seeing the Kingdom and Entering into it.

Repentance: What it is, and what it is not.
Conquering the Word of God.
Ask and Have.
The Lord's Prayer.
Beginning right in all things.

"These are a few of the subjects treated during the last year. Any one who can preach well on all these topics has a good mind and a clear understanding.

"His prayer-meeting talks have been shorter and not so formal, but often very helpful and comforting to a Christian heart.

"I look at my list and see such subjects as:

Social Prayer.
Hearing precedent to faith.
Faithfulness the root of obedience.
Continuance in well-doing.

"The one most helpful to me was that on Christ's words to the woman of Samaria about the 'well of water springing up to everlasting life.'

"Mr. Packard knows the Bible through and through, and his Scriptural allusions are very interesting to me. I can understand him better than any preacher I have ever seen.

"Mr. Packard has persevered and done his best under much discouragement. For that we should be grateful to him.

"We represent many sects, but we are all free in Christ."

Mr. J. T. Tillinghast, of New Bedford, once connected with the Committee of the Society as Chairman for many years, showed his appreciation too in a few words.

The most interesting feature of the services was a recital of a hymn by four ladies, all graduates of an oral school. The delivery in signs by the ladies was graceful and clear as any one from other schools, and they deserve much credit. They are Mrs. L. Clark, Miss M. Short, Miss A. C. Jennings and Mrs. W. H. Perry.

Mr. Bowditch should not be overlooked in this account. He is an oralist, and is not well acquainted with the sign language, but he had the nerve and courage of a Christian to speak orally at the services. He opened the meeting with an invocation, and Mrs. L. Clark acted as an interpreter. The interpreter being deaf, the work of interpreting must be quite as hard as to translate Greek to English.

Prof. A. S. Clark, of Old Hartford, has been engaged to preach at the Boston Society, Sunday, December 9th.

A lecture by Prof. Clark on his European trip last summer, was planned for Saturday evening, December 8th, but for many reasons, the plans were abandoned.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. J. C. Underwood, of Roxbury, Mass., to Miss Annie Thompson, of Brookline, Mass., Thursday afternoon, November 22d. They will be at home on Frances Street, after New Year.

The New England friends of Mr. I. N. Soper, of New York, were surprised to hear the news of his marriage to Mrs. Emma Brown. Best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Soper.

John Trainor won bets of enough cigars to fill a box, on the Harvard-Yale football game, and five dollars too.

The management of Keith Theatre has intimated that the Home will be remembered again in the next series of concerts.

Harry Jordan, of Franklin, Mass., formerly of Newton, was at the Boston Society last Sunday for the first time in many years, and reported that his mother died in a Newton hospital after a long illness last August, and was interred in a Walham Cemetery. He and his mother had been literally been living alone at home for many years, so he must have felt the loss of a good mother greatly.

The Gallaudet A. C. had its last football game this season with the Franklin A. C., on the Lynn A. C.'s grounds on Thanksgiving.

Miss Alice C. Jennings it seems leads a rather strenuous life, contrary to what we have hitherto suspected. Not alone busy with her Bible class and the weekly meetings, she is ever busy with her pen, contributing to various magazines, also helps her nephew, Dr. Horace Parker in music composing. Recently, she translated "The Shepherd's Vision" from German to English. The work was done for the world famous Music House Noville & Co., of New York. She was well compensated for her work, and feels it a great honor to have been able to serve this great firm.

Dr. Horace Parker, her nephew, is a musical composer, and recently her youngest nephew, Dr. Edward Parker, was appointed physician in the Brooklyn Naval Hospital.

The vacancy in the Trustees of the Boston Deaf-Mute Society caused by the retirement of Dr. Dixon, who accepted a call to Chicago, was filled by Mr. Atwood, a well known trunk manufacturer on Federal Street and President of Methodist Social Union of New England. With this new trustee, the Society is now made more representative of all sects, except the Episcopalian, which has a mission of its own for the deaf.

PITTSBURG, PA.

News items for this column many be sent to William F. Durlan, 4594 Blair Street, Hazelwood, Pa.

Nov. 25. — The announcement of the decision of the Superior Court sitting in Philadelphia, consolidating Pittsburgh and Allegheny last week, turned a realized fact, which will ensure the city title of "Greater Pittsburgh" to be constitutional, although it will not be declared so until 1907, when it will become effective. With her becoming consolidated, Greater Pittsburgh will be the sixth largest city in the United States, with population, and fourth in rank of the wealthiest real estate, and the first of the most manufacturing commerce in steel, coke and iron, in the world.

Much interest is being taken in the coming lecture or "talk" to be given on December 8th, at the Auditorium of Trinity Church, by Dr. E. M. Gallaudet, of Washington, D. C. Twenty-five cents for admission will be charged.

A pretty surprise party in honor of Mrs. George Annis, of East Liberty, last Thursday evening, the 15th inst., was a real success. Without an idea that she would be remembered on her birthday, Mrs. Annis was in the kitchen listening to a lengthy "fish story," detailed by Mr. George Annis, who smiled, knowing of the plan as prepared by the invaders, who at that time were marching in a group from the house of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Havens, a few blocks away.

Meanwhile Miss Daisy Annis opened the door in the parlor, and led the marchers, who had taken from the next house one by one of a toilet set, and rushing into the kitchen each placed the present on the table and saluted the unexpected Nellie. She was much surprised and grateful for the pretty gift, contributed by the guests. Miss Daisy and Mr. George Annis plotted the party, with Mrs. W. F. Durlan as assistant. Playing games and luncheon were a feature, followed by a good humored chat before the time to scatter for home. The guests and donors were besides Mr. and Mrs. George Annis and Miss Daisy Annis: Mr. and Mrs. Allabough, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Havens, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fitzgess, Mrs. Wm. Friend, Mrs. Bard, of Ohio, Mrs. Collins Sawhill, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Durlan, Miss M. Bracken, Miss Ida Heim, Messrs. F. R. Gray, Wm. Shull, Ira M. Poorman, Wm. Betchel, and Mr. and Mrs. Hedrick. Mr. and Mrs. George Annis, who came to America from England many years ago, are a couple very intelligent and affable, and zealous in good works for worthy causes. Both have our best wishes for their good luck.

John Deise's brother has gone to Johnston to obtain employment. Mrs. Elmer Havens, once of Ohio, will spend a few days with her folks. Elmer will follow her.

News received here that Mr. and Mrs. Reinhart Fritzges have removed to Girard, Erie Co., Pa., to settle in a better and more roomy location. They are well contented to live in such a place, and the health of Reinhart has been steadily improved since he left Pittsburgh.

His farm contains twenty-one acres, and he is looking for more. Has lots of apples on the trees "waiting to be at a minute's service of vegetarians," and through your writer sends kind regards to their many friends in Allegheny County, of whom they every week read with pleasure and remembrance in the JOURNAL.

They say opportunity is too busy and too much courted to bestow its favor on the unresponsive or the unappreciative. Not likely so on George T. Sanders, our friend and Treasurer of the P. S. A. D. Report that he has established a printing office of his own at Mt. Airy, Philadelphia, Pa., U. S. A. He will succeed, too.

Mrs. R. P. McGregor, of Columbus, Ohio, was given a reception at the residence of Mr. Elmer Havens, of East End. Mrs. McGregor spent some weeks visiting her relatives and friends, and had an enjoyable experience.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fritzges spent Thanksgiving at Industry, Pa.

Miss Maggie Wagner, who has been sick for several weeks, is better. She is among the walkers. J. W. Atcheson enjoyed spending Sunday as guest of B. F. Widaman, of Greensburg.

Charles Cook, of Rosston, near Kitauing, who attended his brother's wedding on November 14th, returned last Saturday.

Miss Georgine Sawhill, of Seville, O., was present at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Cook, when H. B. Waters, of Braddock, acted as best-man.

On the 15th inst., at the meeting of the Trinity Guild, the new officers for 1907 were elected: President, Ernest Cowley; First Vice-President of the Literary Department, J. C. Taylor; Second Vice-President of the Social Department, Mrs. B. R. Allabough; Secretary, Vincent Dunn; Treasurer, J. K. Forbes.

Under the management of the Guild, the members will be invited to a banquet held on the third Thursday of December at the Guild Hall.

Saturday evening, the 24th ult., found a gathering of friends at the comfortable residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Allabough, of Wilkinsburg, attending a surprise party in honor of Frank A. Leitner. This time Mr. Leitner was successfully sidetracked out of the way, by skilful engineers in Messrs. B. R. Allabough and George Teegarden. At the appointed time the light in the largest room was shut off, and as the innocent friend was ushered into the room, silent as sphinx and dark as the blackest coal, suddenly the light turned on and he was surrounded by the merry group. He was thankful in words for the successful and admirable work tendered to him by Mrs. B. R. Allabough and Mrs. Collins Sawhill, who had the whole charge. Messrs. Teegarden and Allabough were hailed as successful detectives to entrap a foxy man from disappearance, although he never suspected it.

Games and luncheon followed, and an enjoyable evening was spent. The number of the invited guests was fifty therefore their names, purposely invited, would occupy half a column in print.

Academy of Music, New York.

The charm of the unusual surrounded Wright Lorimer's production of the powerful romantic drama, "The Shepherd King," which under the direction of William A. Brady began an engagement of four weeks at the Academy of Music, New York, Monday, Dec. 3d, with Mr. Lorimer in the role of David, the shepherd boy of Israel. Mr. Lorimer is supported by a company of 150 players, and the entire production is given intact.

Wright Lorimer has become one of the leading figures on the American stage. Physically he realizes the ideal of the shepherd who became King. And his acting is strong, virile and vigorous throughout the play. It is an idealized David which he presents, because he believes the Psalmist in his young life, at least, to have been an ideal character. His work is stamped with the imprint of genius, and he has added a noteworthy characterization to the dramatic art. "The Shepherd King" is a great big powerful play. It holds the close attention of the audience, because it appeals to humanity, while beautifully illustrating the familiar and well loved story, the rise of the humble shepherd lad to the throne of Israel. The stage settings which are famed for their beauty throughout the country show contrast and well loved story, the rise of the humble shepherd lad to the throne of Israel. It doesn't matter if beauty is only skin deep so long as the skin is worn on the outside.

The Gallaudet Memorial.

It is proposed to create a memorial to the late Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, D.D., by the erection of a Parish Building for St. Ann's Church for Deaf-Mutes. The present Church is situated on 148th Street, just west of Amsterdam Avenue, and is built some twenty-five feet back from the line of the street to permit the erection of such a building as above indicated, which will form a facade to the church edifice and be a center of religious and social life amongst the silent peoples. Dr. Gallaudet hoped during his lifetime to see the erection of this building, which would have completed the church with which his name has always been associated. This was not permitted, and it is suggested as a most fitting memorial to him that this work be now undertaken. St. Ann's Church is used wholly for the deaf-mutes.

The new building will occupy a plot of ground about forty-five feet along the street front and twenty-five feet in depth. It will be three stories in height, with a basement, and will be used for the social, religious and industrial needs of the deaf-mutes of New York. The amount required for "The Gallaudet Memorial Parish Building" will be about $30,000, and the building itself, in its position and purpose, will form a conspicuous monument to him whose life was devoted to the silent peoples. They themselves heartily endorse the memorial.
